India Family Philanthropy Network

Dear Arundhati,

As we step into the new year, we extend our warmest wishes to you and your loved ones for a joyful, prosperous, and impactful 2025. May this year be marked by continuous goodwill, transformative endeavors, and meaningful connections that strengthen our collective mission in family philanthropy.

In the new year we aim to connect with both long-standing and new members of our network to support families in their giving journeys and help chart the path ahead. The GivingPi team will be reaching out in the coming weeks to initiate these conversations and explore how we can be of help and provide meaningful support. Last month, we took a brief pause to reflect, refresh, and renew our vision for GivingPi. After taking this time to regroup, we are returning energized and inspired, ready to make 2025 a year of bold action and greater impact. This renewed momentum begins with the launch of 'The Philanthropist Global Edition'. The second edition of our flagship publication highlights the extraordinary stories of changemakers and philanthropists shaping global giving. Stay tuned.

We're also thrilled to announce that Dasra Philanthropy Week 2025 will take place from February 24th – 27th, centered on the theme 'Rising@2047'. As India nears its centenary of independence, this week will spotlight the role of philanthropy in building an equitable, resilient, and thriving nation. We will soon share detailed information on the schedule of events for the week and the registration process.

Here's to a year of purpose, progress, and shared achievements. Together, let's make 2025 our most meaningful year yet.

With gratitude,

Team GivingPi

Dasra Philanthropy Week (DPW) 2025 will serve as a platform to collectively envision India's journey towards its centenary of independence. Anchored in the theme 'Rising@2047', this year's DPW will bring together leaders, philanthropists, and changemakers to explore bold and collaborative pathways for addressing systemic challenges and fostering inclusive growth. It will focus on reimagining how India's social sector can amplify its impact to create a future rooted in equity, opportunity, and resilience.

A key highlight of DPW 2025 will be the India launch of the India Philanthropy Forum (IPF). Having hosted previous chapters in London and Boston, IPF will make its debut in India as a unifying platform for dialogue and collaboration. Rooted in the ethos of 'India for the World, the World for India', IPF seeks to inspire partnerships that scale innovative solutions and advance India's role as a global leader in philanthropy and social impact. A glimpse from the past

10th December 2024 | Chennai

GivingPi partnered with AVPN to host an exclusive roundtable at the AVPN South Asia Summit in Chennai. This engaging session brought together funders from across South Asia to share strategies, insights, and experiences that drive systemic change in the region. The discussion explored diverse funding approaches, including traditional philanthropy, CSR innovations, and catalytic investments, while highlighting the critical role of collaboration in addressing cross-cutting challenges like gender equity and climate resilience. Case studies showcased innovative practices, and a moderated dialogue provided opportunities to identify shared priorities and actionable pathways for co-funding and collective impact. The roundtable not only deepened understanding of South Asia's funding landscape but also strengthened connections among funders, setting the stage for future collaborations within the AVPN and GivingPi ecosystems.

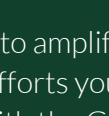

12th December 2024 | Mumbai

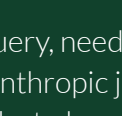

GivingPi and Rebuild India Fund co-hosted an intimate gathering at GivingPi Member Swati Apte's residence in Mumbai. The event brought together the city's philanthropic community and a remarkable group of grassroots NGO leaders from some of India's most underserved regions. These leaders, many of whom belong to the vulnerable communities they serve, shared their inspiring journeys and the challenges they face in addressing critical issues at the grassroots level. The evening provided an opportunity for meaningful conversations, fostering connections between funders and changemakers. The event also marked the launch of a new Giving Circle to support 10 exceptional grassroots NGOs, aiming to bridge funding gaps and amplify their impact. This convening was a celebration of collaboration, leaving participants with fresh perspectives and renewed inspiration to deepen their impact journey.
